Social.... This and That

There aren't many people who can say: "My father is head of the CIA" ~~that's~~ Central Intelligence Agency, but Sacramento's Mrs. Edward Richardson can and does.

She is the daughter of Admiral William Francis Rayborn Jr., who was sworn in as CIA chief on Easter Sunday in Washington, D.C. Admiral Rayborn, retired from the U.S. Navy, is a former vice-president of Aerojet and he was one of the men in charge of work in developing the Polaris missile.

Mrs. Richardson, however, does not let her father's new job distract her from her own activities—a wife, mother and poodle fancier.

The Richardsons—he is a contract co-ordinator at Aerojet—have two children, Jo Ann, 9, and Donald, 6, and as of seven years ago, a miniature black poodle, Fifi. That purchase of Fifi eventually would lead her into owning and operating a poodle grooming palace.

What actually happened is that she decided to groom Fifi herself and from there she went on to buying and exhibiting show poodles. But when she began grooming dogs at home, her husband had one word: "Out." So she opened the poodle palace five years ago with Ellen Garner who had been doing the same thing in her home.

Mrs. Richardson, whose given name is Priscilla, shows her poodle puppies locally, and has her older dogs shown back East.

MRS. EDWARD RICHARDSON grooms Champion Elcoza Hello Dolly, a black miniature female poodle.
